INCREASE THEIR LEAD. Philadelphias in the Meantime Whitewa by Chicago-New Yorks Lose Their Tenth Straight Game at Cincinnati — Boston Drops a Pitchers' Coutest at Pitteburg. After losing three straight games at Chicago the Brooklyns struck their gait again at St. Louis yesterday and defeated the Browns in rather easy style. The Champions also in-creased their lead to 64 points, as the Philadelphias were shut out by the Chicagos. The New Yorks lost their tenth straight game by being outplayed at Cincinnati and are 92 points behind the seventh team. Pittsburg won a pitchers' contest from the Bostons and clinched a secure hold on third place. The results: Brooklyn, 8: St. Louis, 2.

ST LOUIS, July 2.-Brooklyn put it all over the Cardinals to-day, taking the first of the series by a score of 8 to 2. Powell pitched for the home team and Howell for the visitors. The boilermaker was not at his best, the Champions rapping him at will, when hits counted. A dumb play by Powell in the third started the run getting, he holding the ball instend of throwing to third as McGraw directed. The score:

CINCINNATI, 9; NEW YORK, 6. CINCINNATI, July 2.—Cincinnati had little muble in taking the first game of the series on Ewing's crippled aggregation of tail-ends. Cincinnati not only hit Carrick hard but ir work was made doubly easy by the errors the visitors. For three innings Carrick was ective, but in the fourth Doyle opened the e for the Reds with a fumble. Then followed gles, which, with a two-bagger by Peltz and other error by Hickman, gave five runs. The

The one hit charged against him was a fluke, an easy bounder striking a pebble that sent it over Ritchey's head. Stahl, who made it, reached second on Leach's muff of Zimmer's good throw and scored Boston's only run on two outs. Ely was disabled at Cincinnati yesterday and could not play. ANOTHER VICTORY FOR OLD PENN. SWEETLAVENDER'S VERNAL Wine Four-Oared Race at Poughkeepsie Eastly -Cornell Drops Out.

POUCHKERPSIE July 2.- The four cared inercollegiate boat race, postponed from Saturday, was rowed this morning under favorable conditions of wind and water. It was won by the University of Pennsylvania, with Columbia second. Cornell was out of it at the finish. The Ithacans were dead at one mile and a half and finally ended up in the eel grass on the beach on the west side. Brinckerhoff, at bow, had only strength enough to put his oar in the water and pull it out, and when the four stopped rowing to avoid a collision with a rowboat he completely collapsed. Beyer, at 3, who had been struggling alone for over half a mile to keep the port side from pulling the starboard side around, was exhausted. With their victory this morning the Quakers have a record of two firsts and one second out of three events. Out of compliment to their 'Varsity eight and as a recognition of their gameness and the brilliant manner in which they outrowed Wisconsin at the finish of Satur-day's race, the Graduate Committee in charge gameness and the brilliant manner in which they outrowed Wisconsin at the finish of Saturday's race, the Graduate Committee in charge of the rowing interests of the institution has offered to give the members of the crew a trip to the Paris Exposition this summer. All their expenses will be paid. It was first proposed to have the orew enter the international rowing races at Paris, but Filis Ward advised against it. The trip will be devoted exclusively to sight seeing and having a good time.

There was no delay in starting the fourcared race. It was set down for 10 o'clock and at that hour all the crews were on the way to the line opposite the mile mark. Referes Armstrong sent them off without any preliminaries. He simply asked if they were ready and fired the pistol. Columbia was a little allow in getting away, but the Quakers and Cornell got off well together. 'Pennay' began to set the pace, but Cornell took up the challenge and the two crews rowed side by side, with Columbia a length behind and steadily losing ground. At the end of the first half mile the order was: Old Penn first, Cornell a quarter of a length behind and Columbia nearly two lengths back of Cornell. From here to the bridge, which marked the first mile, the race between the Quakers and Cornell was fast and close. The former draw shead of the Ithacans slowly, and Columbia dropped still further back until seven or eight lengths of open water showed between the blue and white four and the leaders.

As the orews passed under the bridge the Quakers still had a slight advantage over Cornell. Brinckerioff, the Ithacans' bow oar, was beginning to weaken under the strain and the shell was swerving off to the eastward. Just beyond the bridge the Quakers supured and increased their lead, and Columbia began to gain on the Ithacans. The Quakers repeatedly spurted, but the Cornell crew clung to them desperately. Although the latter could not again an inch and the starboard side of their boat was swinging steadily toward the shore, the Red and White oarsmen

MASS MEETING FOR OARSMEN.

National Regatta Committee Will Strive Hard to Send Crews to Paris.

A meeting of the Harlem Regatta Association was held last night at the Hotel Minot, 126th street and Eighth avenue, with James Pilkington in the chair. The Treasurer reported that with all the expenses of the regatta deducted there remained a balance of $70 on hand. The meeting resolved into one of local affairs of the National Regatta Committee and a discussion of ways and means for sending crews to Paris to participate in the world's championship ensued. It was the world's championship ensued. It was reported that there had been raised between $2,100 and $2,200 of the $5,000 necessary to send twenty men over early in August. It was decided to call a mass meeting to arouse interest next Monday night at Arcade Hall, 267 East 124th street, and to send invitations to all members of the rowing clubs in the district. The Letter Carriers' Band volunteered its services for the mass meeting.

It was decided that no boats would be allowed on the Speedway course during the afternoons of the regatta, July 19, 20, 21, and that the presidents of all clubs along the course that the presidents of all clubs along the course should be notified not to allow members to take boats out of the houses on those afternoons. There were some emphatic remarks made over this, to the effect that inasmuch as the proceeds of the regatta are to go to the fund for ending orews abroad, every self-respecting member who wants to see the races should pay for a seat on the grand stand. Plans of the stands were submitted and seats and boxes offered on sale. During the regatta days there will be telephones at the half-mile and one-mile marks to facilitate the display of signals at the stands to tell who are leading.

Canadian Amateur Rowing Regatta.

TORONTO, July 2.- The feature of the twentyfirst annual regatts of the Canadian Amateur Oarsmen's Association to-day was the series of wins by the junior four of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto. The water was compara-tively smooth when the races began, but in the final race of the senior fours, won by the Detroit Boat Club's crew after an exciting contest, the course was rough. In the junior fours the Argonaut club's crew after an exclung contest, the course was rough. In the junior fours the Argonaut junior crew, composed of R. F. Blain, bow; J. R. Bunting, 2; P. Hardisty, 3; T. P. Birchall, stroke, won easily by two lengths from Detroit juniors and five other crews. Time, 9 minutes 28 seconds.

The next race was the intermediate four. In this the Argonaut juniors again won, defeating the Grand Trunk (Montreal) crew, a crack lot of rowers, in 9 minutes 22 2-5 seconds. The big event of the day was the senior fours. In this race only four crews contested. The Detroit Boat Club's crew was composed of J. F. Lyon, bow; W. Mower, 2; D. B. Duffield, 3; H. N. Jeonard, stroke. The Detroits were fouled by an excursion steamer, and the Argonaut juniors won by half a length. The Dons, Toronto, were second; the Detroits, third, and the Argonaut senior crew, fourth. The Argonaut seniors included Goldman and Wright, the two crack men sent to Henley last year. The Detroit men entered a protest, and the committee or dered that the race be rowed over again. By the time the race was started the water was very choppy, which accounts for the slow time. The Detroits won by 10 feet. Time, 9 minutes 45 2-5 seconds. The Detroits won this race last year.

In the senior singles, L. Marsh of the Don Rowing Club defeated by five length: Goldman of the Argonauts, who rowed at Henley last year and was regarded as the best amateur oarsman in Canada. Time for senior singles, 10 minutes 16 2-5 seconds. The course was 1½ miles with a turn.

The Rainbow May Be Handled by an American Skipper.

NEWPORT, July 2 .- It is reported here that there is likely to be a change in the skipper of the 70-footer Rainbow, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt, and that Capt. Jack Parker will be replaced by an American. A yachtsman stated replaced by an American. A yachtsman stated to-day that Nat Herreshoff says that there is nothing the matter with the boat and that she is as good as the rest of the class. He further says all the yacht wants is a new skipper, and it is stated that Mr. Vanderbilt will act on this suggestion. Capt. Parker and his English crew are not familiar with cro-s-cut sails, they being quite different from the English, and, in consequence, the first suit was spoiled in stretching. Capt. Wringe of the Mineola received valuable information in relation to the handling of cross-cut sail and has profited by it.

The Rainbow is still at Bristol. The Yankee and Virginia went outside to-day, going as far as Point Judith. There was no attempt at racing. The steamer C. B. Lowndes arrived to-day to act as tender for the Yankee.

Maris Wins the Intercity Cup.

The sloop yacht Maris, built last winter by Lawley for a syndicate of Charleston yachtsmen to try and win back the Intercity cup from the to try and win back the Intercity cup from the Savannah yachtsmen, was successful. She beat the Dragoon easily in two races. The Dragoon was purchased for Savannah parties last year and won the cup from Charleston. After that the Charleston men had several yachts designed and finally selected one from the board of Clinton H. Crane. The series was the best two out of three races. The Maris won the first two, beating the Dragoon about ten minutes each time. The Maris is to be sold at auction.

GOLDFINCH FILLY TAKES THE PLUM AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY. Demurrer and Brigadier Put the Pinneers on

Veivet, but Procession Breaks the Sequence
- Favorites First and Second Over Hur-dies-Tournine Springs a Surprise-Entries. The fact that the enjoyable June meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club is nearing its close and that yesterday's card was well up to the average in quantity and quality, attracted about six thousand visitors to Sheeps head Bay. It was a sort of "ladies' day" among the equines as the only stake feature scheduled was the Vernal for two-year-old fillies. Seven smart young misses answere the call to the post, A. H. & D. H. Morris's Add being bulletined as a starter after Petra II., Connie, Welsh Girl and Queen Pepper had been withdrawn from the overnight list of ten. The hitherto unbeaten Watercress filly, Elizabeth M, looked a certainty on her last two races and the short price of 7 to 10 was so freely accepted that late plungers considered themselves lucky to get aboard at 1 to 2. Sweet Lavender and All Saints alternated in second favoritism with Lady of the Valley in mild demand.

The favorite dashed away at flagfall and ziz-zagged down the Futurity hill interfering with almost everything else in the race. Lady of the Valley joined issue at the elbow and drew away a clear length but Littlefield then came along with Sweet Lavender and brought her home by three parts of a length. Elizabeth M. wound up very tired, a couple of lengths behind the St. Saviour filly and only a head in front of Add, who was closing strongly after being almost bumped off the course. Jockeys Shaw and Clawson were asked some questions by the stewards regarding the cause and effect of the crowding, but the numbers were not of the crowding, but the numbers were not altered.

The card looked invitingly easy to the regulars and they cheerfully scrambled for 6 to 5 against Demurrer when the bookmakers grew tired of laying 8 to 5. A side plungs on Browndale, Creason and Tom Kenny enabled admirers of Luke Ward, the logical second choice to back the Whitney colt for place at as good as 3 to 1. The Madden cast-off signalized his first appearance in the white and red of "Tony" Aste by running away from his field as easily as he did last Friday, with Luke Ward again second.

Aste by running away from his field as easily as he did last Friday, with Luke Ward again second.

The one-mile race for three-year-olds on the turf lost some of its general interest through the withdrawal of The Amazon and Lord Baltimore, but the talent found no fault. Brigadier, Montanic and Vesuvian figured in the order named as best of the seven left in, and they finished as played, Brigadier outstaying Montanic and beating him four lengths, while the Whitney gelding took the place by three lengths from Vesuvian. In scratching The Amazon Walter Keyes showed rare judgment, as Brigadier won on the bit in 1:39 4-5, three-fifths of a second better than the course record made by Blue Devil on June 25.

With rolls of ring money to burn, the plungers saw a royal chance of doubling their winnings on Procession in the third race, as 4 to 5 seemed liberal odds against the Canadian horse after the blue pencil had disposed of Prince of Melbourne and Lady Massey. A wise minority played Favonius from 9 to 2 to 18 to 5 and Kinglike's sturdy son won at his leisure by a length in slow time for the regular Suburban distance. Littlefield and Latson went to sleep for over a mile, but then sprinted into the place two lengths in front of Knight of the Garter with the favorite at the wrong end of the procession.

Dr. Eichberg and Mr. Stoffel failed to accept for the hurdle handicap, leaving Hardy C. and Hardy Pardee Joint favorites at 8 to 5. Desperado and Monroe Doctrine were played down some points, but Klondyke and Draughtsman were ignored. The race resolved into a duel between the rival favorites and they raced in close company to the last obstacle where Hardy C. drew away and won handily by a length. There were suggestions of crossing and foul riding, but after a long investigation the stewards sustained the judges placing.

The surprise of the day was reserved for the closing event, in which Touraine, at 30 to 1, got home by a neck from Olea, Oread, Buffoon and Ben Hadad who were all well bunched at the finish. Summary:

BOSTON, July 2.—Turf lovers flocked to Readville to-day in large numbers for the opening of the spring meeting of the New England Trotting Horse Brequers' Association. Three events were on the card and they proved interesting despite the fact that favorites won in straight neats. Sagwa, purchased by T. W. Lawson at Cleveland last fail, the favorite in the 2:17 class, was pushed hard in the first heat by Roster and in the second by both Roster and Temple Wilkes. The first two heats of the 2:25 pace were races between Hall McEwan, the favorite, and Sally Hook, but the former won them both by a neck. The third heat was easy for McEwan. Axielio captured first money for the Hon. Frank Jones in easy style. The summaries:

FAST AND SKILFUL POLO. DEDHAMS WIN FROM MEADOW BROOKS

Consition Against Losers Damaging to Thei

Before a crowd of nearly 10,000 persons at the Prospect Park Parade Grounds yesterday, the Dedham team of Massachusetts defeated the crack Meadow Brook quartet in the semi-final round of the Polo Association championship by a score of 5 goals to 214 The discrepancy was in a large measure due to penalties for crossing and safety incurred by the Meadow Brook players, as the latter only scored one goal less than their rivals. It was a fluctuation contest from the start and in the first period the play indicated that the Meadow Brook men would have an easy thing of it. Though their ponies were not quite as speedy as the Dedham's mounts, they responded to the rein in much readier style and throughout the afternoon were thoroughly under the control of the clever horsemen. On the other hand, the Dedham ponies appeared too fresh and hard to manage, until the rapid work of the first period toned them The palm for individual play was easily taken by Allen Forbes of the Dedhams, who was mounted, he used his mallet with a dash and effectiveness that produced a strong case of rattles in his opponents, and no more brilliar, play has ever been seen on the Prospect Park field than marked the closing work of the young New Englander.

Referee Seward Carey of Buffalo placed the ball in play at 4:35 o'clock. George Eustis got it out of the scrimmage and the play was at once transferred to the goal defended by the Dedhams at the southern end of the field. A smart rally by the visitors sent the ball back to the centre, where Harry Payne Whitney took possession and cleverly carried it along. driving it through the goal posts after 1 minute and 50 seconds. The Dedhams now set a took possession and cleverly carried it along, driving it through the goal posts after 1 minute and 50 seconds. The Dedhams now set a merry pace, and after circling the field Weld came out of the bunch and scored in ten seconds less time than it took the Meadow Brooks to make a goal.

The third goal was well fought out and the play included a pretty race down the field betwen Weld and Whitney, which ended in favor of the former. He returned the ball with a back stroke just in time to save a score. Then Nicoll came with a whirlwind rush along the western border and passed over to W. C. Eustis, who scored again for Meadow Brook in a trifle over three minutes. A couple of minutes later the same player scored again, by carrying the ball from midfield unassisted. With the score 3 to 1 against them the Dedham players braced up and Forbes made two grand rushes that just missed scorifg.

Nicoll, fouled Goodwin shortly after the second feriod opened and the Meadow Brook hard luck began at once. Goodwin got a clear lead of twenty yards on the field and cantered through the goal posts after the ball without being approached. Whitney recovered some of the lost vantage by scoring a dashing point for Meadow Brook in forty seconds. The play which was mostly in the Dedham half of the field, was spirited until the end of the period, and three mallets were broken in quick succession. Whitney crossed Crane near the Dedham goal and the Meadow Brooks lost another half point. The ponies were changed then and the Massachusetts players had the best of it, a one-fourth safety being marked down against Nicoll.

Steady work marked the opening of the third period, but Forbes improved and accuracy. After three minutes he drove the ball down from centre field close to the rail in two strokes, close to the Meadow Brook boundary line, then missed. Goodwin, however, picked it up and passed to Forbes, who scored and placed Dedham ahead for the first time. The Meadow Brooks players chasing him throughout. The lead was broken after about four and

NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN. Chief Consul Belding Denounces the Street

Sprinkling Systems.

Chief Consul Belding of the New York State Division, L. A. W., yesterday delivered himself of some pent-up opinions concerning the doings of the Street Sprinkling Association under the present administration. Resaid that the method sprinkling the streets was a great public grievance that appealed to every class of citizens. The streets are being flooded and not sprinkled, he said, and in a way that was a menace to public health as well as dangerous to the cycling and automobile traffic. He called particular attention to the condition of Fourth street, from Washington Park to Broadway, which he declared to be an avenue of mud, slime and filth, thanks to the intemperance of the water carts. Because of the way Fifth avenue is flooded, he said that cyclists are driven into violation of the rules of the road through seeking the smallest streams and pools of water on the asphalt. No language, said Mr. Belding, is too strong in which to condemn the practices now in vogue by the sprinkling cart men. He now in vogue by the sprinkling cart men. He was emphatic in declaring that it was not simply a grievance to tens of thousands of cyclists, but one that offended thousands of drivers, chaffeurs, pedestrians and residents. Last year the recklessness of the water cart drivers was put under check. They were forced to use judgment, their own or that of their superiors, and they left dry strips on the main asphalted avenues. This year, however, the officials seem to have been too busy with politics or something to attend to so trivial a thing as public discomfort. For cyclists and automobilists, it has been sagely remarked that Fifth avenue would be more ridable if it was sprinkled with cracked ice. This would lay the dust and not form so many pools on a slimy and slippery thoroughfare.

There were happenings on the road yesterday witnessed by a reporter of The Sun that were suggestive of a great change that is now going on with regard to the attitude of the wheelmen, horsemen and automobilists, who at first regarded one another as natural enemies. One was the sight of a small automobile standing at the roadside while its driver was calling out to the wheelmen who passed, "Got any tire tape?" A couple of cyclists rode past after calling back "No!" in tones of evident honesty. A third, who was on a tandem carrying a woman in front, stopped, produced a huge roll of tire tape and asked: "How much do you want?" The chaffeur did not want the tape for the tire, but to make fast a temporary repair in the metal part, and he took about three yards. He offered to pay for it and was laughed at, with a "That's all right, old man; same to you some day." The second incident was still more interesting, as it brought the traditional enemy of wheelmen, a driver, out in the light of a rescuer. A wheelman was at the side of the road, trying to inflate his tire with a small hand pump after having plugged it. He was working hard and perspiring. A man driving a road wagon fitted with pneumatic tires reined up beside him, and, handing out a big foot-pump, said to the bicyclist: "Hey, try this; it's easier," and followed it up with the query; "Got all the cement and tape you want? I've got plenty here."

The road incidents related of the coming together of all classes of road travellers in recognition of common interests brings to point remarks made recently by H. B. Fullerton, chairman of the L. A. W. Highway Improvement Committee. He said to a friend, with great glee and a burlesque of astonishment:

with great glee and a burlesque of astonishment:

"Yes, I've been invited to speak before the Pleasure Drivers' Association and before a mixed audience of automobilists and cyclists. I've really got a lot of friends among automobilists and horsemen, and me a good-roads cycling crank. What do you think of it? The farmers also are beginning to want good roads. I tell you, I feel as if the millenium was coming."

At the polo game on the Prospect Park Parade At the polo game on the Prospect Park Parade Ground yesterday a great many wheels were stacked in pairs. Many stacks fell down because the riders had not done the trick properly. The best way, learned through experience, to lean two wheels together and make them stand up is to turn them "fore and aft," with the head of one against the saddle of the other. The handle-bars then lock with the saddles and do not interfere. The front wheel of each machine should be swung inward toward the other.

After several years of anxious waiting for the piece of work on the two blocks of Hancock street that complete an asphalt route from Twenty-third street ferry to Bushwick avenue, riders will be glad to know that it has been begun and will be completed by next Sunday. The two blocks are those between Howard avenue and Broadway.

DEATH OF WILLIAM B. CURTIS.

stating that William B. Curtis, one of the for ers of that club, was killed at Mount Washington, N. H., yesterday, and requesting that Harry E. Buermeyer, W. F. Freudenstein, and Mortimer Bishop be notified. Supt James J. Duffy said that he feared the intelligence contained in the despatch was true, as the veteran left New York for Mount Washington according to his usual custom to select a route for the Fourth of July excursion of the Fresh Air Club, of which he was the pathfinder. He was an intrepid mountain climber and has spent nearly every holiday and every Sunday during the spring and fall for years past, exploring the different ranges in the East and his daring has ed to many hairbreadth escapes.

W. B. Curtis, who was familiarly known as "Father Bill," was born at Saulsbury, Vt., Jan. 17. 1837. He was a unique figure in amateur athletics, and from a prominent participant in allaround sports during the early days of amateursm in this country developed into an authority on all branches of sport whose opinions were quoted and respected all over the world. As an official at the principal meets his services an official at the principal meets his services were in great demand and it was only last spring that the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. paid a high tribute to his works by presenting a silver loving oup to him in recognition of his services as referee at the annual games of the association for nearly twenty years.

During the Civil War Mr. Curtis served in the Union Army. As a youth he was sickly and went into athletics as a forlorn hope, having been considered by doctors as a hopeless consumptive. After the war he came to New York, and in 1867 in company with H. E. Buermeyer and J. C. Babcock set up a small gymnasium at 200 Sixth avenue, where the formation of the New York A. C. was discussed and the club finally organized on Sept. 8, 1868. At that time "Father Bill" was a fast short-distance runner and defeated nearly every man of note in the country in match races.

After a few years spent here he went to Chicago, where he was a member of the Board of Trade. He frequently made trips East to defend challenge cups on the river or track. At this time he was wealthy, but the Chicago fire resulted in the loss of his property and after a few years he came back to New York to take a place as managing editor of the Spirit of the Times, a post which he held for twenty-one years. A change of policy of the paper led to his resignation. Mr. Curtis was the first man to own a pair of spiked shoes and at the first games of the New York A. C., held in Madison Square Garden, the novel pumps were loaned to a competitor in every race, being even worn by one of the contestants in the one-mile walk.

Though noted for his performances on the were in great demand and it was only last even worn by one of the contestants in the one-mile walk.

Though noted for his performances on the running path, it was as a heavyweight thrower and lifter that he was best known. He accom-plished a hand lift of 1.230 pounds, and on Dec. 20, 1868, lifted 3,239 pounds with harness, a feat that never has been eclipsed. At throwing the 16-pound hammer, from a stand he won the American champion-ship in the following years: 1876, with 76 feet 4 inches; 1878, with 80 feet 2 inches, and 1880 with 87 feet 444 inches. In 1878 he also won the national championship at throwing the 56-pound weight, with 21 feet, and was a member of the New York A. C. tug-of-war team that won the championship in 1879 and 1880.

As an oarsman Mr. Curtis was equally

As an oarsman Mr. Curtis was equally prominent. He won many races as a sculler and rowed on some of the best crews in the seventies, winning the senior double sculls at the national regatta of 1874, under the colors of the New York A. C., with F. E. Yates in the other set.

the national regatta of 1874, under the colors of the New York A. C., with F. E. Yates in the other seat.

"Father Bill" served as President of the New York A. C., but leit the organization for a while and joined the American A. C. He afterward became a member again, and received a life membership by subscription of fifty members. He was a prominent factor in the organization of the Amateur Athletic Union, served several terms as treasurer, and then became its president. He was an enthusiastic skater and has for years been president of the National Skating Association. One of his latest appointments was as delegate from the A. A. U. to the L. A. W. and in that capacity he influenced the League in its decision to abandon racing. His active interest in athletics never has flagged. He devoted all his spare time to swimming in the summer, mountain climbing in the spring and fall and long trips on skates in the winter. He was a great lover of music and a regular attendant at the opera.

Samuel J. Montgomery, a member of the N. Y. A. C. and a personal friend of Mr. Curtis, wrote last night to John R. Van Wormer, president of the club, asking that the funeral service conducted in the clubhouse on Sunday afternoos. This programme will doubtless be carried ent.

Middle States Championship Opens With an All Star Entry List. The Middle States championship lawn tennis ournament opened yesterday afternoon at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club with an all-star entry list. Out of the twenty-five players entered there are fifteen of national reputation, including no less than seven of the first ten players of the country. Champion Whitman will defend the challenge cup, while Larned and Davis, his two most dangerous rivals for national supremacy. are among those who will try for the right to challenge him. It is also expected that the U. S. N. L. T. A. International Committee will depend largely upon the results of this tourna-coming international matches.

There was plenty of excitement in the first day's play, no less than five of the eight preliminary matches requiring the full three sets to decide. Young E. P. Larned sprung the first surprise by beating J. A. Allen of Yale and earned his first spurs. Then E. L. Hall, the veteran who recently won the New Jersey The Veteran Athlete Killed While on a Tour at Mount Washington.

The sloop yacht Duchess, recently purchased y Lieut. Cecis H. Dean of the Royal Artillery. stationed at Georgias, Bermuda, is to be taken there on the steamer Trinidad, which sails on Friday. The Duchess was built in 1897 by Charles D. Mower from his own designs. She was raced successfully in Eastern waters and in 1898 won the championship of the 18-foot class of sloops. Her dimensions are: 'Twentynine feet over all, is feet on the water line, a feet beam and a inches draught. With her centreboard down she draws six feet, she has two rigs. When racing in the is-foot class, in which there was no restriction as to sails, she carried 600 square feet of canvas, but in the 10-foot class, in which the sail spread was limited, she carried 600 square feet. The boat was brought around from Boston on a flat car and was put on board the Trinidad yesterday.

Lieut. Dean will race the yacht against some of the flyers that are sailed in Bermuda waters. These boats are very fast and carry enormous spreads of canvas. The yachtsmen there crowd on all the sail they can and hold on until they carry away or capsize. The yachts there are of the soow type, and when they capsize one of the men on board cuts the lashing that holds the ballast in place and then the yacht floats safely until towed into port. nine feet over all, 18 feet on the water line, 8

The Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club has been considering the action of the 70-footers Mineola and Rainbow at the start of the Glen Cove cup race on June 19, and it is expected that a decision will be rendered shortly. It appears that the Mineola, on the port tack, tried to force the Rainbow, on the port tack, tried to force the Rainbow, on the starboard tack, about. The two yachts were coming together, both heading for the committee boat end of the starting line, and under the rules the Rainbow received the right of way. At one time it looked as though the Mineola would be cut down by the Rainbow, but just when it seemed impossible to avert a collision Cornelius Vanderbilt ordered Capt. Parker to give way. The Mineola was able to cross at the windward end, but the Rainbow was forced to go over the line and then to tack and cross again, going over at the leeward end.

The owners of the two yachts, Vioe-Commodore August Belmont and Cornelius Vanderbilt, left the matter in the hands of the Regatta Committee, believing that the committee received the power to take any action it saw fit under the rules. Mr. Vanderbilt declined to make a protest. The committee has taken testimony from those who were on the yachts and from others who saw the whole scene. It is expected that the Mineola will be disqualified and the cup given to the Rainbow.
